Get professional treatment for sofa fabrics

27/08/2010

Interiors experts have advised sofa-hunters with small living spaces to make sure the sofa they buy is easy to clean - or to get a professional in to do the job.

In this week's Your Home Canada, interiors expert Donna Laporte asked interior designer Yanic Simard how he created a home that is both stylish and practical, given its "long and narrow dimensions".

Mr Simard says that he always lives in one room, so all furniture must be functional and hard-wearing.

For homeowners that are on the look out for a new sofa for a tiny flat, he advises that they buy a sofa that will look good with a table next to it.

In addition, because of the usage the item will get, buyers should make sure it's made of a tough, durable material such as high-density foam.

He added that it is advisable to "get a professional in" to treat the fabric on sofas and other soft furnishing because they will be used more often the average sofa.
